

Rubric for Concepts

Criteria	5 - Excellent	4 - Good	3 - Average	2 - Fair	1 - Poor
Clarity	The concept is presented in an exceptionally clear and understandable manner, with no ambiguity.	The concept is clear with minor areas of ambiguity that do not impede understanding.	The concept is generally clear but some aspects are ambiguous or confusing.	The concept has several unclear aspects that make comprehension difficult.	The concept is not clear or understandable, with pervasive ambiguity.
Logic	The concept is highly logical, with a coherent structure and sound reasoning throughout.	The concept is logical with some minor lapses in coherence or reasoning.	The concept shows some logic but lacks coherence in places.	The concept has significant flaws in logic and coherence.	The concept is illogical or incoherent, with no clear line of reasoning.
Validity	The concept is well-supported by evidence and/or sound reasoning, demonstrating high validity.	The concept is mostly supported by evidence and/or reasoning, with some areas lacking robust support.	The concept has moderate support but significant portions lack evidence or sound reasoning.	The concept has minimal support, with most assertions lacking evidence or sound reasoning.	The concept lacks any credible support, with assertions not grounded in evidence or reason.
Usefulness	The concept has significant practical applications and is highly beneficial.	The concept has good practical applications and is quite beneficial.	The concept has some practical applications but limited benefits.	The concept has few practical applications and is of little benefit.	The concept has no practical applications and is not beneficial.